ROOT MAY TAKE HAY'S PLACE

IS URGED BY PRESIDENT AND ALL HIS ADVISERS.

Has Been Constantly With Mr. Roosevelt on Funeral Trip and Is Believed to Have Given Answer-Business Reasons Only in Way-After More "Big Thieves."

PITTSBURG, Pa., July 5.-President Roosevelt's journey from Jersey City to Cleveland was devoid of special incident. He occupied the time conversing in his car with members of his Cabinet and the gentlemen who had been his advisers in the

He had several talks with Elihu Root on the way to Cleveland and it is understood that he requested Mr. Root to consider returning to the Cabinet, presumably as the head of the Department of State. It is known that the President ardently desires Mr. Root to accept the portfolio of State and it is beleved that Mr. Root at present is undecided.

He retired from the Cabinet about a year ago on account of business reasons and it is believed that the same reasons hold good to-day. ais perhaps the most eminent practising lawyer in the country and the returns from his profession are very large. It is understood quite well that with the acceptance of the portfolio of State Mr. Root would sacrifice a great deal, but on the other hand there is a hope-it is little more-that his earnest friendship for the President and his strong sense of duty by the nation may lead him to return a favorable answer.

The members of the Cabinet on board the special, seconded the President's wish most carnestly that Mr. Root return to the Cabinet, and most of them believe there is a possibility that he will, but no one but the President and Mr. Root knows at present what the latter's course will be.

Save for whatever talk there was between the President and Mr. Root regarding the latter's return to the Cabinet-and this conversation was of the most general nature-there was no business of state discussed on the way to Cleveland.

The President did not regard it as decorous or proper that any business should come up while he was on his way to the funeral of Mr. Hav. Last night Secretary of the Interior Ethan A. Hitchcock was warmly congratulated by the President on the victory of the Department and his own personal triumph in securing the conviction of Senator Mitchell of Oregon on charges of conspiracy to defraud the Government. Mr. Hitchcock was greatly pleased at the decision of the United States Court as he had fought the big grafters tooth and nail since he took office.

He said to-day that the conviction of Senator Mitchell is only a step in the crusade of the Government against high placed thieves that had been fattening undisturbed on Government moneys until the present administration came into office, and that more indictments, more trials and more shipping of big thieves to penitentiaries may be looked for.

Mr. Hitchcock has been giving a good deal of his attention lately to getting after grafters in the Indian Territory who have conspired to rob the Indian wards of the Government. Through his efforts batches of indictments have been secured there Mr. Hitchcock said that the conviction of Senator Mitchell will have an incalculable

At Alliance, Ohio, this morning, while the President's special was stopping for a change of engines and the President and several others in his car had stepped to the rear of the train for a breath of fresh air, a man walked along the platform glancing into the car windows. Secret Service Officers Tyree and Sloane and M. F. Bradley superintendent of police for the Penn sylvania lines, were after him like hawks, watching every move he made, ready to nab him at the slightest suspicious action. He was a big, gawky fellow, with a great shock of black hair and swarthy complexion. Turning around to Bradley, he said:

"Oh, you needn't get scared. I just wanted to see the President of the United States. Say, what is his name, anyway?" "And to think," said Bradley in deep disgust, "he is an American citizen and speaks English." The President was told about the simple what the name of the President was, and he enjoyed the joke hugely. There were few evidences on the trip from Jersey City to Cleveland that people in the towns the train hummed through knew the President was At Philadelphia, Harrisburg and Alliance, where daylight stops were made, there were only a few persons at the depots, nothing more than ordinary crowds, and at towns where the train did not even hesitate the station platforms were usually bare as bones. On account of it being the Fourth of July the trip was recognized to have dangers out of the common, the possibility of stray bullets from careless celebrators, for instance, and the Secret Service men redoubled their vigilance

The President was never out of their eight for an instant. When the train made a stop two of them watched at the rear of the President's car while another patrolled the platform with Supt. Bradley and local eleuths that had been informed of the President's coming.

To-day at luncheon with President Roosevelt in his car were Mr. Root, Mr. Morton, Secretary Shaw, Charles Emory Smith, Attorney-General Moody, Dr. Rixey and

Mr. Root, as a matter of fact, has been ou of the President's company scarcely a half hour since the journey began at Jersey City. He has a stateroom in the President's car; he has been with the President at every observed the scenery together and have been in conversation practically every hour. Other members of the party spent considerable time in other cars of the special. Mr. Root did not. These things are regarded as highly significant, at least of the President's attitude. As for Mr. Root's attitude in regard to the invitation to rejoin the Cabinet, it is safe to say that no living man save the President knows what that is. Upon the arrival of the train at Pittsburg the President stepped to the rear platform of his car, flanked on either side by Secret Service Men Sloan and Tyree, and said: "My friends, I am not expected to make a speech, as I am just returning from the funeral of Mr. Hay at Cleveland. He was a friend of us all and a man for whom I had a deep affection. As I have said before, I am always glad to be in Pittsburg. I am sorry my time is so short. I wish I could remain longer. Good night."

HOLE THROUGH HIS HEART. Yet the Patient Is Alive and the Doctors Are Marveling.

Unable to trace the course of a bullet hy means of the probe, Drs. Brady and Rossford of St. Vincent's Hospital, Stater Island, put on the X-rays yesterday and found that the bullet had entered and passed through the heart and was buried in the lung of Harry Nowok of 178 Chrystie street. He started out for a day of pleasure on Tuesday, but while crossing the bay on the ferryboat Castleton he was hit in the left breast by a bullet from a revolver which Max Daseher of 533 West 103d street was displaying to a friend. It looked as if Nowok would not live until the ferryboat got to Staten Island. but he appeared then stronger and better, having rallied from the first shock. The fact that he was alive with a bullet hole indicating that the bullet had entered his heart caused the doctors to think the wound superficial, and he was allowed to rest until yesterday afternoon before a serious attempt was made to find the bullet. The doctors say it is the most remarkable case on record.

Last night the patient seemed better and stronger than at any time since being admitted to the institution. There was no indication that a change for the worse was likely to occur. The doctors have taken steps to prevent Nowok from moving or being excited.

GORHAM COMPANY TANGLE. May Be Straightened Out Without an Appeal to the Courts.

As a result of a conference held between the lawyers representing both sides of the controversy in the affairs of the Gorham Manufacturing Company, it is more than likely that the difficulty will be settled. The present agitation in the company is due to a dispute between President Edward Holbrook and Vice-President George Robinson. Mr. Robinson and his attorneys declare that Mr. Holbrook agreed in writing to deliver to Mr. Robinson 15.500 shares of the company's common stock at a certain price, but went back on his agreement and declined absolutely to part with the stock on the day set for delivery.

Two days ago Walter Vincent, one of Mr. Robinson's attorneys in Providence. came to this city to consult with Lawyer Samuel Untermyer concerning the advisability of putting an attachment on the New York property of Mr. Holbrook. Mr Untermyer advised against it.

Certain persons interested in the company say that a movement has been on foot force Mr. Holbrook out and that he refused to deliver the stock when he got wind of the opposition's plans.

MRS. BOOTH MAROONED.

Prison Worker of Volunteers of America Spends Night on an Island.

FIRE ISLAND, July 5 .- Mrs. Ballington Booth and her son and daughter are marooned, but comfortable, to-night at the Hotel Water Island, a mile from the Blue Point life saving station. Mrs. Booth set out for a sail this afternoon and came across Great South Bay caught behind a bar on this side of the bay and cannot be floated to-night. Mrs. Booth and the children walked two miles to the life saving station to make an effort to telegraph to Mr. Booth, but found that telegraphic communication with Blue Point was cut off for the night. Mrs. Booth and her children then walked another mile to the hotel, where they put up for the night.

SHONTS PAYS A $20 FINE.

Chauffeur Testifies That the Comm Had Cautioned Him. STAMFORD, Conn., July 5 .- Panama Canal

Commissioner T. P. Shonts, who was held up here yesterday with a party of ladies for breaking the automobile speed law, paid a $20 fine for his chauffeur, Percy M. Smoots, to-day. In court the chauffeur said that he had had four years experience and thought he knew how to gage speed. He did not believe he covered the measured eighth of a mile in 22 seconds and said that Mr. Shonts, who was a very careful man, had cautioned him continually. Mr. Shonts is spending the summer in a cottage at Bell Haven,

POSED AS A BELMONT. Hoboken Man Passing Bad Checks in the West Is Arrested.

COLOBADO SPRINGS, Col., July 5.-W. A. Witt of Hoboken, N. J., is in jail here charged with uttering forged certified checks. The complaint is made by the management of the Chicago Auditorium Annex Hotel. The Antlers Hotel was warned a week ago to be on the lookout for Winthrop Elliott. He registered on his arrival here as H. P. Belmont of 677 Fifth avenue, New York, claiming to be a mem-avenue, New York, claiming to be a member of the August Belmont & Co. banking house. He was immediately spotted and detectives put on his track.

When he reentered his room after a brief but lively round at Broadmoor Casino he was arrested. He attempted to seize a revolver, with which to end his life. On his person were found four certified checks on the German-American Bank, New York, in favor of William Winthrop. D. Hahn. on the German-American Bank, New York, in favor of William Winthrop, D. Hahn, teller. A fifth check was on the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, New York. Witt, who is 24 years old, dressed well and spent money freely. He will be returned to Chicago for trial.

DROPS ITS SECRET SERVICE. Wabash Road Discharges 123 Men After

Scandal About Passes. CHICAGO, July 5 .-- C. E. Eames, superintendent of secret service of the Wabash Railway; J. B. Nichols, special agent of the system, and 121 operatives in the employ of Eames and Nichols have been dismissed for alleged looseness. F. A. Delano, first for alleged looseness. F. A. Delano, first vice-president of the company, who, in the absence in Europe of President Ramsay, assumes his duties, declined to enumerate the charges, to which he referred as "looseness in the conduct of the secret service department."

One of the offenses reported is traffic in passes. Mr. Delano said it was a decision on the company's part to abolish the system and thereby save $75,000 a year. The story as to passes is to the effect that some of the secret service men got passes for scores of detectives and other city employees and took "loans" from these men as a return favor.

EQUITABLE PROSECUTIONS.

TALK GETTING PRETTY DEFI-NITE OF MORE DISCOVERIES.

Next Report of Supt. Hendricks Looked For With Interest and Alarm-One Rumor Deals With Alleged Stock-Jobbing Backed by Society's Funds.

Reports yesterday of District Attorney Jerome's intentions in the Equitable case created a big stir among the directors and officers of the society accused in the Hendricks report. They regard it now as pretty certain that the District Attorney is going to bring criminal proceedings against some of the men concerned in the scandel. They have heard that he wants to prosecute some of the directors on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the society if he is unable to get them on any stronger charge.

So far as the actual work of examining he evidence is concerned, the District Attorney has taken up only the Frick and Hendricks reports. He has not yet received from the State Superintendent of Insurance the testimony taken by him. Mr. Jerome sent for the evidence the day after Gov. Higgins wrote to him saving that he could have it. The delay has been occasioned, it is said because of the difficulty of compiling the testimony into practical working shape. The Attorney-General's office also is being held up on account of the delay as regards the proposed suits to make the guilty directors disgorge and

If Mr. Jerome finds concrete evidence of crime he will submit the evidence to the present Grand Jury, but if he decides that a ong investigation will be necessary to fasten violations of the law on any one a special Grand Jury will probably be drawn.

Along with the news of Mr. Jerome's purposes a pretty definite report was current yesterday that enough evidence has been obtained in other quarters to warrant criminal prosecutions and that the next report of Supt. Hendricks would show that officials of the Equitable made use of the funds of the society in stock margin transactions in the name of the society, which enabled them to profit by the market created. The report had it that the Superintendent of Insurance was now investigating this matter and that he would show in his final report flagrant violations of the insurance law.

Members of the "James H. Hyde and Associates" underwriting syndicates were more interested in the reports of Mr. Jerome's intentions than any of the other directors. There were many conferences vesterday between the lawyers representing James W. Alexander and counsel for Mr. Hyde, and all showed plainly that they were worried. James H. Hyde is so much interested in the developments that he may give up his trip to Europe. It was said two or three days ago that he expected to sail soon, but vesterday the announcement was made that he might not go.

Mr. Hyde's counsel, Samuel Untermyer, says, however, that he will sail on July 11, to be gone two months. Mr. Untermyer wrote to District Attorney Jerome several days ago asking if he knew of anything that would be likely to prevent either Mr. Hyde or himself from leaving the country. Mr. Jerome, it is understood, told Mr. Untermyer that there was noth-

Mr. Untermyer said yesterday that he knew nothing of any contemplated criminal action against Mr. Hyde and that he had found nothing in the testimony or the reports that would constitute a possible basis for such action.

BIDS GRAND JURY BE CAREFUL. Judge Foster's Charge Evidently on Equitable Case.

The case of the Equitable Life Assurance Society was called to the attention of the July Grand Jury, which was sworn in by Judge Foster in General Sessions yesterday. Although the Equitable was not mentioned by name, Judge Foster left no doubt in the minds of the jurors of what he referred to. He warned them that they might have to sit over into next month, and said that they might have to hold unusually long daily sessions. In regard

"I understand that the District Attorney is investigating a matter of great importance and may need your assistance. I have given him my assurance that you will assist him. In order to meet any important matter that may arrive in that contingency your time may be extended. You may be required to serve after 1 o'clock some days. The ordinary hours of the essions of the Grand Jury will probably be extended at any rate. I can give you no other definite notice at this time. It is likely that there will be a lot of work for the July Grand Jury and you may even be compelled to serve beyond the month of July. July Grand Jury. The law requires that there must be sixteen at least. Judge Foster remarked that it was a misfortune that a number of the original members of the Grand Jury were out of town, adding that those who had been selected would have to be prompt in attendance. After reading the law, Judge Foster said: "I think that during the past three months I have heard more criticism of Grand Juries than ever before. And, therefore, I shall give you explicit instructions.

"Under the sections of the law I have quoted you have power, whenever you suspect that a crime has been committed in this county, to make a rigid investigation. Your finding in such a case should be on evidence such as to warrant a conviction by a trial jury. No person should be indicted and placed on trial against whom there is not sufficient evidence to "Ordinarily the District Attorney does not institute criminal proceedings, but the party aggrieved goes before a City Magistrate and makes a complaint. If there trate and makes a complaint. If there is sufficient evidence, the Magistrate holds the accused for the Grand Jury. The District Attorney cannot prosecute unless the Grand Jury decides that there is evidence to warrant a conviction.

"All cases, however, do not pass through the hands of the City Magistrates, and in the investigation of such cases you should be most careful. Chief Justice Marshall has said that Grand Juries should examine with special care all charges which have not passed through the police or magis-

"Experience has taught us that not all indictments stand and that at the request of the District Attorney some have to be dismissed for lack of evidence. The

MONTOLAIR, July 5. - Helen Bunker, daughter of Edward H. Bunker of Montclair, and the divorced wife of Prof. Stewart Culin of the University of Pennsylvania, was married in New York to-day to Prof

Edgar A. Singer, also of the University of Pennsylvania. Prof. Culin, Mrs. Singer's first husband, is ourator of the museum at the univer sity and an anthropologist. He was accustomed to make long trips to the east or exploration work, and it was on his return from one of these trips that he discovered that his wife and Prof. Singer, an associate of his, had become attached to each other. Prof. Culin demanded that the friendship cease, but his wife is said to have refused. Shortly after this Prof. Culin started off on

CLARK AND HEINZE REUNITED. Clark Wants to Keep His Toga and Heinze Wants a Friendly Legislature.

BUTTE, Mon., July 5 .- Senator W. A Clark and F. Augustus Heinze have formed a new political alliance, and all Montana is talking about it. The alliance has just been concluded, and both Mr. Heinze and Mr. Clark have started on their separate ways for Europe.

The new combine is preliminary to next year's campaign in Montana, when Mr. Clark wants to return to the United States Senate and Mr. Heinze wants a Legislature and friendly Judges on the district and Supreme Court benches.

When Clark was elected to the Senate he was in alliance with Heinze against the Amalgamated Copper Company, but immediately after his election he turned against Heinze and allied himself with the Standard Oil and Amalgamated interests. Since that ime the Clark and Heinze interests have been hostile to each other. In Butte Heinze is supreme politically, and without a delegation from Butte the control of the next Legislature in the interest of Clark's candidacy is questionable. Without Clark's support from outside counties Heinze would not stand much show of getting a hearing before the Legislature or of electing friendly Judges. The facts of the new alliance are confirmed by the managing editor of Clark's newspaper, who has retired because of it.

Sol Lichtenstein, the bookie, and the Brighton Beach Racing Association are the defendants in a suit brought by H. Gottschalk to recover $900, which he says he lost in wagers made with Sol at the track on July 20 and 21 of last year.

Gottschalk says that he bet $200 each on Peggy, Bobadil and Tongorder, and $300 on Atwood. All lost In its answer the association denies any knowledge of gambling within its premises and its counsel, Charles H. Hyde, applied yesterday to Supreme Court Justice Gildersleeve for an order directing Gottschalk to serve an itemized bill of particulars showing the details of his wagers. De Lichtenstein's defense is that the asso ciation runs a betting ring and that therefore it and not he is responsible for the repayment of Gottschalk's wagers.

NAVAL HERO PROMOTED. Richard P. Covert Made a Chief of Division in the Post Office Department.

WASHINGTON, July 5.-Richard Perry Covert of Wisconsin, who served as a seaman with Dewey in the battle of Manila Bay and who was one of the few Americans injured in that engagement, has been appointed chief of the appointment division in the office of the Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General.

Soon after Dewey gave the order to begin the battle in Manila Bay young Covert, who helped to man one of the guns on the cruiser Baltimore, sustained a severe bone fracture, but he gamely stood to his work until the fight was concluded.

Covert acted as confidential stenographer to Fourth Assistant Postmaster-General Bristow when that officer was probing the postal scandals. He performed a re-markable feat at that time, when he wrote on the typewriter the complete Bristow report, containing more than 100,000 words. Covert worked on the document for thirtysix hours without leaving his desk.

The chief of the appointment division has jurisdiction over about 75,000 post-

C. F. BAILEY GETS A DIVORCE

FROM THE WOMAN WITH WHOM HE WAS SHOT BY DR. DADE.

Charged Her With Desertion After Proving Conspiracy in Connection With the Divorce Action She Began-Still Suing Her Brother for Putting Up the Job.

PHILADELPHIA, July 5 .- A divorce was granted to-day to Charles F. Bailey, vicepresident of the Bailey, Banks & Biddle Company, from his wife, Selina Coe Kerr Bailey It was the climax to litigation that has included many suits and counter suits. The decree, which was handed down in the Court of Common Pleas, was on the application of Mr. Bailey, who charged his wife with desertion.

another love trip, and Mrs. Culin removed to Mrs. Bailey was the widow of Chauncey F. Kerr and became the bride of Mr. Bailey in November, 1900. The wedding was the sequel to a somewhat sensational adventure in the Adirondacks. Mrs. Kerr was the hostess at the mountain cottage of her brother, E. Holloway Coe, and Mr. Bailey was one of the guests. One day Mrs. Kerr and Bailey were walking through the woods. At the same time Coe and a Dr. Dade, another of the guests, were gunning. Unknowingly they came into close proximity to Bailey and Mrs. Kerr. A rustling of the leaves was mistaken by the gunners for the movement of a deer.

Dr. Dade raised his Winchester and fired. There were loud cries from the thicket and the gunners hurried in the direction whence they came. They found Mrs. Kerr and Bailey each wounded. Bailey was wounded in the back, while Mrs. Kerr was struck in the thigh. Bailey was seriously injured, but recovered after a few weeks. Mrs. Kerr's life was saved only by the amputation of her right leg. wedding followed Mrs. Kerr's recovery.

On Jan. 21, 1902, Mr. Bailey received cablegram announcing the death of his mother in Paris. His wife accompanied him to the dock and bade him an affectionate farewell. On Feb. 16 Mr. Bailey arrived home on the Touraine in company with his father and the body of his mother. On the dock he was met by a messenger who informed him that Mrs. Bailey was suffering from nervous prostration at home of her mother. As fast as ho home of her mother. As fast as horse flesh could get him there Mr. Bailey hurried to the home of his wife's mother, at 568 Fifth avenue. There he had a stormy

His wife charged him with infidelity and declared that she had in her possession a written statement to prove it. Mr. Bailey thought that his wife was laboring under a delusion due to hysteria. Her brother, E. Holloway Coe, who was present, was appealed to, but he sided with his sister, and remarked: "I have seen the statement." Mr. Bailey left the house. It was his last interview with his wife and the beginning of a long, hard fight for the vindication of his name.

Mr. Bailey, coming to this city, retained John G. Johnson, Richard P. White and Thomas W. Barlow to defend him. He several times tried to get in communication with his wife, but failed, and was finally informed that she was going to sue for divorce, on evidence furnished by a Philadelphia woman. Through counsel repeated demands were made for a right to inspect the evidence. After many refusals Mr. Bailey was shown an affidavit, att graph of himself. The affidavit was made before a local attorney and was signed Violet Walsh. The woman swore that she had accompanied the man whose photograph was attached to various places and was known as his wife Months of investigation on Bailey's part followed, and on Jan. 25, 1904, the climax came when he caused the arrest of E. Holloway Coe in a suit for $100,000 based on charges of conspirácy and the alienation of his wife's affections

Accompanying the order for Coe's arrest Mr. Bailey filed sensational papers, parts of which were confessions by William Virtue, Henry Johnson and Maizie Allen alias Violet Walsh. Virtue, it was alleged was a former secretary to Coe. It was alleged that the men, at Coe's instigation, had secured the woman to sign the affidavit. Maizie Allen admitted she had signed the name Violet Walsh to the affidavit and had been paid for doing so. She said the affidavit was entirely false and that she had The suit against Coe, it is said, is still pending. Apparently Mrs. Bailey never pressed her claim to a divorce. After the legal limit of two years had expired Mr. Bailey entered his suit here, alleging desertion. After a hearing before a master a favorable report was made ipon which the decree of to-day was entered. Mrs. Bailey inherited $1,000,000 from her father, E. Frank Coe. Her first husband

DEMOCRATIC PEACE IN KINGS. Confab Between Senator McCarren and

Deputy Fire Commissioner Doyle. The Democratic harmonizers in Brooklyn were gleeful yesterday when they learned that for the first time since the factional war started nearly two years ago Senator McCarren and Deputy Fire Commissioner William A. Doyle, the leader in the Seventh Assembly district, had lunched together at the Clarendon Hotel and indulged in a friendly political conference of an hour

The fact that Thomas F. Wogan, who has been McCarren's representative in the squabbles in the Seventh district, was also present foreshodows, it is supposed, a cessaion of the factional warfare. When the confab was over neither McCarren nor Doyle would say whether they had reached any basis of settlement, but there was a general impression that the Seventh district would soon be included in the McCarren column, leaving the anti-McCarrenites in control of only the Second, Elevent h and Twelfth districts.

BABY HUPFEL DROWNED.

Grandson of New York Brewer Blown Into Lake Strapped in Its Carriage. NEWBURGH, July 5 .- The 20 months old grandson of A. G. Hupfel, the New York brewer, was drowned in the lake on the Hupfel estate near here to-day. It was fastened in its carriage, which was blown into the lake. The child had been sent out with its nurse for an airing. The nurse had strapped the baby in its carriage so that it should not crawl out. The child went to sleep after a while and, leaving the carriage near the edge of the lake, the nurse went away for a few moments. When she returned, the carriage and baby had disappeared. The nurse searched frantically all around the nearby roads thinking someone might have rolled the earriage away. She never suspected that the baby and carriage had disappeared into the lake.

She finally notified the child's parents and all the help on the estate were turned out to search for the baby. The nurse showed where she had left the baby carriage standing and the marks of the wheels showed where it had gone to. The hood of the carriage had been up and acted as a shield to catch the wind.

Men were put to work to drag the lake, and it was not long before they found the carriage. The baby was still in it. The child had been dead some little time.

The parents of the child were utterly overcome. The nurse is almost out of her mind with remorse

ON GREEN WATER OFF LIBERTY Is Where the Dollar-a-Nighters Are Invited

John Arbuckle announced yesterday that his floating hotel, the ship Jacob A. Stamler, would be anchored off Liberty Island, instead of off Coney Island, and tha the tender carrying "boarders" to the ship would leave the Battery pier. It was the original plan to have the tender dock at a pier in Coney Island, but a trial showed that the seas at the island made landing dangerous, so the Battery pier was chosen. The plan of boarding at $1 a night, including dinner and breakfast, remains as originally intended. Overnight boarders will be landed at the Battery in time for work. Mr. Arbuckle doesn't want the rich to take advantage of his offer.

and Genoa. FELL HEAD FIRST FROM BALLOON Workman Caught in Ropes When the Big Bag Breaks Away.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., July 5.-Breaking away from several volunteer helpers, balloon at Allen Park, three miles north of here, yesterday carried Roy Stokes, hanging head downward from the rigging, twenty feet into the air. Then his shoe slipped off and he dropped to the ground. He was unconscious from escaping gas before he fell. It is thought he is internally injured and he will probably die.

Thomas Cowan, the aeronaut, was attaching the parachute, while Stokes was under the big canvas bag ready to close it. A split in the balloon near the top caused those holding the ropes to let go quickly thinking there was danger of fire. The balloning the ropes to let go be the second design both loon moved over the ground, dragging both men, until Cowan severed the parachute, allowing the balloon to shoot upward.

Rebel Crews Get Supplies After Shelling Akerman.

Last Reported at Theodosia -- Crews Laure Note to the Powers. Declaring That They Will Respect Foreign Commerce - Victing Hears That Powers May Take Action to Protect Their Interests -Rioting in St. Petersburg When Touth Shoots a Policeman-Coseacks Fire.

Special Cable Despatches to THE SUR. ODESSA, July 5. - Admiral Kruger's quadron, consisting of the battleships Rostislav, Dvienadsat Apostolof and Tri Sviatitelia, a cruiser and half a dozen torpedo boats, with the recaptured battleship Georgei Pobledonosets, has arrived at Sebastopol, where, learning that the rebel ship Kniaz Potemkin Tavritchesky was at Theodosia, orders immediately were given to pursue her. It seems certain that the mutineer will now be hunted down mercilessly.

Naval officers declare that the Potemkin has comparatively little ammunition, having expended a quantity during the maneuvers. There is reason, however, for taking this statement with reserve. Meanwhile the freedom of the mutineer to roam the Black Sea is paralyzing trade.

CREW'S MANIFESTO TO THE POWERS. Following is the text of a manifesto issued by the crew of the Knias Potemkin Tavritchesky while that vessel was at Kustendje, Rumania

St. Petersburg, July 5.-Admiral Chouknin has ordered the squadron at Sebastopol to embark new crews and partly new officers, and that four destroyers be sent to sink the Potemkin. It is understood that the Czar is indignant at Admiral Kruger's first decision to les ve the squadren passively at Sebastopol.

Admiral Chouknin has allowed those officers who are unwilling to rejoin their ships to remain ashore. He has raised entirely fresh crews and has restored the

POWERS MAY ACT.

LONDON, July 6.-The Vienna correspondent of the Morning Post says that steps are being taken in official quarters to raise the question of an international agreement to protect commerce in the Black Sea and collectively to represent to Russia the dangerous consequences of allowing the Kniaz Potemkin Tavritchesky to cruise unmolested among neutral chip-
